ERIKENT ENLIGHTENED BY GRIP. LONDON, May 12.—The deaths from influenza in this city during the past week number 148, an excess of 70 as compared with the highest death rate in the epidemic of 1890. The death from lung disease reached a total of 84, which is 30 in excess of yesterday's figures. The hot waves of yesterday appear to have made the influenza epidemic milder. John Lubbock and Mr. Burdett-Coutts are down with the disease. All the eminent patients are doing well. It is expected that Mr. Gladstone will go to Hawarden on Saturday.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The District Convention in Session at Trinity Church.

BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS BY THE ORGANIZATION THIS MORNING.

President Hammond's Address on the Growth of the Society—Rev. Edwards on Why the League Should be Denominational—Meeting of the Board of Control—The Program.

The district convention of the Epworth League was opened in Trinity, M. E. Church at Tenth and North Market streets at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The majority of the delegates present were young ladies representing leagues in the district, which comprises all leagues in St. Louis and on the Iron Mountain Railroad to the northern line of Arkansas.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. J. P. Marriott, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church. President W. H. Hammond took the chair, and in the absence of the Recording Secretary Rev. James was elected to act temporarily.

A Committee on Credentials, composed of Rev. Frank Lenz, Mrs. James and Miss McDonald, was appointed by President Hammond. The committee reported having received credentials from the following chapters, giving the names of the delegates, most of whom were present:

THE DELEGATES.
Harlem Place Chapter—Rev. O. C. James, Mrs. C. O. James, Miss M. Hoppen, Miss Lillie Edgar.
Clifton Heights Chapter—Rev. R. F. Stiles, Miss Ada McDonald, Miss Carrie Fry, Miss N. Baugh.
Goode Avenue Chapter—Rev. Frank Lenz, Miss Sarah Nell, Miss Daisy M. Hull, J. G. Field.
Trinity M. E. Church—Rev. J. P. Marriott, Miss Jennie Moore.

Carondelet Chapter—George Philley, Miss Lulu Pickering, Earl Smith, Nettie Bird.
Water Tower Chapter—Rev. J. F. Carrington, Mrs. M. Witter, Mrs. J. F. Carrington, Harry Menow.
De Soto Chapter—Rev. D. W. Crow, Miss Jessie Harris, Stephen Smith, Miss Minnie Robertson, J. N. Sutton and Miss Nellie Butcher.

Festus Chapter—N. D. Sweeney.
Though the majority of the delegates were present, they did not comprise a very large body, including the members of the Board of Control and church members. This fact caused President Hammond to read a resolution offered by a delegate to the effect that all members of the Epworth League be invited to the annual meeting, and have a voice in the affairs, but shall not vote and that all members of young people's organizations in the churches also be invited to attend.

Rev. J. P. Marriott said he favored the resolution for the reason that the number of delegates for each chapter necessarily made the body in convention small when it should be large and representative. Rev. Frank Lenz opposed the resolution, saying a convention should be held by a delegated body and not by a representative body. No more progress could be made by a large body than by a small one, but many things counted for nothing in a small body of earnest workers. The resolution was lost. The attempt to allow all members of the league equal voice in the convention except to vote was made last year and defeated.

PRESIDENT HAMMOND'S ANNUAL REPORT.
President Hammond then read his annual report. He said there were many reasons why Epworth Leagues should congratulate themselves. The success and growth of their organization had been phenomenal, from a small chapter organized three years ago, the league had grown throughout the United States until it now had 4,000 chapters and 400,000 members, and will have over 1,000,000 members if the ratio of increase is kept up for the next year. The objects of the league, he said, were to teach the members the principles and tenets of the Methodist Episcopal Church and he was proud to say that there were now 400,000 earnest students being taught those principles.

Remarks on the growth of the young society, the good it could accomplish in the church and why all young Methodists should become members, were made by Bishop Thomas Bowman, Bishop J. M. Fitzgerald, Rev. M. D. Carroll and Rev. Francis, members of the Board of Control.

The event of the morning session was the paper read by Rev. Arthur Edwards, D. D., editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, on the subject, "Why the Epworth League was a Denominational Society?" Rev. Edwards went deep into the belief of the Wesleyans, and their reasons for leaving the Anglican Church and establishing the Methodist Church. They believed in leagues, and were unjustly called disrupters, for they hoped and prayed for the co-operation and league of all the soldiers of Christ. Still the league must be denominational in this that it spread the teachings of the one church, the Methodist Church, under whose fostering wings it has thrived as the church itself has grown, a growth so marvelous as to make it one of the most remarkable chapters in religious history.

Rev. Dr. Hubbard was called upon to make a few supplementary remarks on this subject and he believed the league should be distinctly Methodist. It was born in that church which has its own methods, vastly different from the methods of other churches. There is a large and growing society in other churches, he said, meaning the Society of Christian Endeavor, but that the Methodist was something different, more in contact with the church and and it in the aims and plans of the Epworth League. If the Methodist Church is to be kept up its principles must be taught to the young people of the league.

At the conclusion of his address, recess was announced.

At 2:30 o'clock the convention reassembled and the afternoon was taken up hearing reports of chapters and membership and other miscellaneous business.

REAL ESTATE INTERESTS.

A Twenty-Five Acre Plot Beyond the Limits Sold for $86,000.

A special commissioner's sale of a tract of very elegant residence property, located just beyond the line dividing the city from the county of St. Louis, directly west of the business center, attracted a big crowd of spectators and other people anxious to learn something of the value of land out in that new and interesting territory over which this city is spreading. Festus J. Wade was the special commissioner appointed to dispose of the property, and it was sold by him, the Hammett-Anderson-Wade Real Estate Co., under direction of the court in the proceeding entitled Hickart et al. vs. Hickart et al.

The property embraces a tract of 25-100 acres, through the eastern portion of which runs the Washburn Railway. Eisel avenue is its northern boundary and Barstow the southern line of the plot. At first sale was made in subdivided parcels aggregating 25.25 acres, the respective parcels being owned by the following persons: Being Maurice Hesel, F. J. Comstock, C. E. Jones, Louis Haynes and F. B. Bergler. In accordance with the terms of sale previously announced, the plot was then offered for sale as a whole, the first bid being $22,500. This bid was rejected, and the property was then offered in all the previous bidders cut, and their earnest money was thereupon Meers. Hesel, therefore, and F. B. Bergler. McKee then entered into competition for the prize, the possession of which had been anticipated by the representatives of two or more syndicates already formed to buy the property. By the time the property was offered the bids rose up to $35,000 when the land was knocked down by "Who'll Start 'er" before the court dispersed the crowd. The purchaser is a son-in-law of Mr. McKee. The property is related by marriage to the Rink family, and who also owns a great deal of very handsome residence property adjoining the site he bought to-day, both on the south and west. The sale of this property at such a price and under such circumstances indicates the value of the subdivision of the same locality. "Hillside" subdivision of the same locality, the court dispersed the crowd. The Hammett-Anderson-Wade Real Estate Co. put up another piece of ground at auction. A plot of 100 acres, situated at the southwest corner of Easton and Hamilton avenues, immediately south of Mt. Auburn, a new subdivision now being prepared for the market. There was very little competition for this ground. It started under $4,000 and was knocked down for $6,250 to Adam Offenstien.

WATSON'S FRUIT HILL.
Construction work now under way along the line of the St. Louis & Suburban Railway for changing the road to a double-track electric railway is stimulating a very active development of fruit raising in the vicinity of the line. There is a great deal of fruit land now being held above that figure have been advanced also in anticipation of the special change which will follow the improved method of rapid transit. In fact, there are a number of building sites anywhere along the line within the city limits that can be bought at $15 a foot, but beyond the boundary and within a few hundred feet of the double track there are lots in the Watson Fruit Hill subdivision, high ground, which may yet be bought within the figure named. At the indication of enhancing values out that way the firm of A. K. Florida & Co. report the sale of 100,000 feet of land on the south side of Central avenue, 100 feet east of Hammett, near Gambleton Station at $15 a foot, from Mrs. M. E. Florida & Co. D. D. Thompson. This is much the highest price that has yet been paid for ground in that locality. The Fruit Hill tract is just beyond that, lying between Page and Ridge avenues.

Florida & Co. also report the following sales:

Kennery avenue—South side, 200 feet east of Marcus, at $17.50 per foot, from W. P. Crosswhite to F. A. Becker.
O'Day place—Formerly known as O'Day farm—2 1/2-100 acres, being block No. 7, at $200 an acre, to Wm. Bierman from Thos. Stratton, who bought the ground at Florida & Co.'s last auction of the O'Day farm at $145 an acre.

THE ALEXANDER ESTATE.
The administrator and trustee's sale of Main and Second street property conducted yesterday afternoon by the Hammett-Anderson-Wade Real Estate Co. attracted a good deal of interest on account of the near proximity of the new bridge to the site. ALMOST $1,000,000.

The Failure of Levy Bros. & Co., New York Clothiers.

CHARGED WITH MAKING FALSE STATEMENTS OF THEIR AFFAIRS.

A Previous Collapse of the Same House in 1886, with Liabilities Reaching $2,500,000—The Failure of Millionaire Turner of Michigan—A Little Rock Concern Goes Down.

New York, May 18.—Levy Bros. & Co., wholesale clothing manufacturers at No. 610, 612 and 614 Broadway, were closed up by the Sheriff yesterday, who acted under writs of attachment aggregating $100,747.24, and Augustus H. Levy, one of the partners in the firm, is pronounced hopelessly insane by physicians who examined him yesterday, his mind having been unbalanced by the catastrophe which has fallen on his house. The firm is composed of Julius Levy, a man of about 65 years, who resides with his family at 207 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street; August H. Levy, 45 years old, of 100 West Seventy-third street, and Moses S. Levy, a resident of Brooklyn. The two last named are brothers and Julius Levy is their uncle. Early yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff Barker took possession of the establishment under two writs of attachment which had been granted the evening before, one by Judge Andrews, favoring the National Bank for $50,015.34 and one by Judge Lawrence in favor of Joseph Lillenthal for $19,700.35. Within a very few hours news of the attachments had spread around among the firm's creditors and the first writs were speedily followed by six others, as follows: For Nathan Krieger, $11,000; for William Lauterbach, $5,502.08; for Nathan May, $25,000; for the Pacific Bank, $1,662.29; for Julius Ballin of Baltimore, the copyright of "The Millionaire," $2,541.20, and for John S. Downing, $1,640.85.

The affidavits upon which the writs were granted declare that the firm had within the last few years made an unlawful conversion of its funds and payments to the amount of over $100,000 to Samuel Levy of Frankfurt, Germany, now but formerly of this city, a brother of Augustus H. and Mrs. S., and that such payments were made with the intent to defraud the firm and to deprive them of the payment of their just dues. The affidavits also set forth that the firm, in a statement made to the National Bank in December last, showed and claimed a surplus of over $500,000, and that an investigation of the condition of the firm, however, showed that the apparent assets of over $500,000, making an apparent deficit within less than six months of over $500,000.

Mr. Otto Horwitz of Horwitz & Horshfield, attorneys for the Park National Bank, said last night: "The firm is the same which under the name of Levy Bros. & Co., failed in 1883 for $2,700,000, only Samuel Levy was at that time a partner, and Moses S. Levy was a salesman in the employ of the firm, not interested as a partner. The failure in 1883 was precipitated by the failure of F. May, with whom they were intimately connected. Mayer & Co.'s failure was exceedingly disastrous to their liabilities over $2,500,000. The firm say now that their trouble is partly due to the fact that they were overvalued with $500,000 of liabilities of the old firm which they assumed when they resumed business in 1883; but they took the assets of the old firm and for years have represented that all that old indebtedness has been paid off and that out of the large business they had since they had cleared up over $500,000 surplus which was invested in the business. It was on the strength of this statement that my client, the National Park Bank, discounted their paper to the amount of nearly $500,000. Of course, the bank had collateral, which were represented to be customers' bills, but upon investigation I find they contain large bills of accommodation paper and to be largely worthless."

"The failure will be a disastrous one, I am afraid; the liabilities will be at least $700,000 and may reach a million or more, but I believe the assets will realize at least half a million. The fact they are in the hands of the Sheriff under attachment proceedings will not conduce to an amicable settlement of the firm's troubles. In fact, I look for a general scramble of the rest of the creditors to get in first with their writs of attachment."

Five additional attachments, aggregating about $30,000, were filed against the firm of Levy Bros. & Co. this morning. The firm was not opened for business yesterday.

The order is divided into eight districts, seven of them being in this country and the eighth in the old world. The order is managed by an executive board elected every five years, the last having been chosen at Richmond a year ago. Mr. Julius Eisen of New York is the President, and Mr. Jacob Furth of this city the Treasurer. The object of the order is to benefit generally the whole Jewish race. Homes for the aged are built and the orphans are taken care of. The orphan asylum at Cleveland being one of the largest in the world, and cost a half million dollars. It is now in charge of Mr. S. Wolfenstein, who was formerly a resident of St. Louis. One of the most important questions which will in all probability be discussed will be the persecution of the Jews in Russia, and some steps will be taken to aid those in need of it.

has for Germany's liberties and progress. If the young Emperor were wise he would realize that nothing is so dangerous to power as the boastful proclamation of it.

HOW NOLAND ESCAPED.

The statute under which NOLAND was indicted provided that a State Treasurer shall be punished as for stealing if he shall "convert to his own use in any manner whatever, or shall use by way of investment in any kind of property or merchandise, any money that may have come to him by virtue of his position."

Considering the precise language of this statute, jurymen would naturally expect the prosecution to introduce evidence going to show in what manner NOLAND converted some of the money he took to his own use; whether he gambled it away, invested it in property or merchandise, or lent it to somebody with or without interest. The careful exclusion or avoidance of all the easily attainable evidence on that point by the prosecution could not fail to impress jurymen inclined to hold faith in the honesty of NOLAND's intentions.

An attempt has been made to divert attention from this remarkable failure of the prosecution by newspaper assertions that the six jurymen who voted to acquit have the excuse that they were instructed by the Judge to acquit, unless the prosecution convinced them that NOLAND took the money with the intention of stealing it. But even Gov. FRANCIS in a newspaper interview rebukes this trumped-up excuse for the failure of the prosecution, by saying that the Judge's rulings were "eminently fair," and by citing the positive instruction in which the jury were told that they must find the defendant guilty if they believed he had taken the money, even though they believed he intended at the time to return it.

Under that instruction six jurymen voted to convict, and it was only by garbling the instructions, as some newspapers are doing, and putting an unwarranted construction upon some particular sentence separated from the context, that the six jurymen who voted to acquit can contend that they were authorized by the instructions to base such a vote on the failure of the prosecution to show that NOLAND had retained or invested a single dollar of the money.

They were told that to convict they must believe the defendant's intention was criminal, but that such intent was to be inferred from the criminal taking of the money. The prosecution relied wholly upon this legal inference, did not attempt to fortify it by showing that NOLAND retained or spent for his own use a single dollar, and six jurymen took advantage of this failure to vote an expression of their confidence in NOLAND's intentions, in utter disregard of the positive instruction that they were to find him guilty if they should be convinced that he took the money as charged, notwithstanding any belief on their part that he intended to return it.

A similar result may be expected in any future trial conducted by the prosecution in the same court way.

EXPLAINING THE GOVERNOR'S ACTION.

Mr. M. A. FANNING, who was the Governor's private secretary, rushes to the defense of his former friend and benefactor with a statement that FANNING knew of NOLAND's gambling and was not indebted to any NOLAND for the information on which he began the investigation which ended in the removal and indictment of the Treasurer.

According to Mr. FANNING the Governor had been anxious for some time about the condition of the Treasury, but felt a delicacy about inspecting the Treasury accounts unless he could be sure of finding a deficit there. During all this period of anxiety, when reports of NOLAND's behavior were constantly reaching him, the Governor, according to Mr. FANNING, carefully refrained from offending NOLAND by taking a look at his books and was at a loss what to do.

So much worried was he that "he sat up day and night going over the statutes, till he found one which required the banks to make a monthly report to him." This statute had been read and signed by him only a few months before, but he had not forgotten to enforce it, but had forgotten there was such a statute, till everybody around him was talking about NOLAND's spending and gambling. Then, for the first time, when pretty well assured that he "had the drop" on NOLAND, the Governor proceeded to call on the banks for the monthly reports which would have revealed to him every unauthorized draft paid during any preceding month.

This picture of a Governor forgetting the sworn duty enjoined upon him by a statute recently approved by himself, is remarkable. The forgetfulness and indolence that led NOLAND to the precipice and pushed him over are the only explanation we have of the failure to make the banks pay $1,000 to the school fund for each fall, to send a report monthly to the Governor personally. Mr. FANNING's suggestion that NOLAND, and not the banks, withheld the reports and was responsible for their laying themselves liable to such heavy penalties, is far-fetched and fails to connect with the logic of the situation.

The successful discharge of the duties of the position of railway conductor demands a high degree of tact, intelligence and judgment. The position involves grave responsibilities, and upon the efficiency of the men holding it depend in large measure the interests of the railroads and the safety and comfort of the traveling public. It is the training school for higher positions in the railway business, and many of the ablest railway executive officials were promoted from the road. Convincing proof of the high class of service obtained by the railroads in this line of work is found in the fine body of men in attendance at the Conductors' Convention here. We bespeak for them on behalf of the citizens of St. Louis a cordial welcome and the freedom of the city.

In a speech before the New York Reform Club of New York on the subject of "Municipal Administration," President Eliot of Harvard remarked: "The doctrine of rotation in office, when applied to modern municipal functions, is simply silly." It is simply silly when its application results in the displacing of one good man for another good man, but when it is applied to the displacing of officials of proved honesty and efficiency for others known to be unfit, or not known to be fit, in order that the political and personal interests of the Mayor may be advanced, it is criminal folly. The present situation in this city is a case in point.

According to authentic report MME. BLAVATSKY was dead when the Theosophical Convention met in Boston, yet the convention sent her a message of congratulation and confidence. Perhaps some learned Theosophist can explain how it was that while MME. BLAVATSKY and several members of the convention claim the power of visiting in their astral bodies and communicating with friends thousands of miles distant, the death of the High Priestess of Theosophy was unknown to her faithful followers.

The unkindest cut we have received from Europe is a question on the part of a member of the Austrian Reichsrath with regard to slavery in the United States which is alleged to be imposed upon subjects of Austria-Hungary. The unfortunate point about the question is that it is not improbable that cases of practical slavery could be made out from contracts existing between ignorant foreigners and their employers.

THERE was no evidence of a lack of harmony between the Mayor and the Council last night, but the crucial test of the latter's subservience to the wishes of the Mayor will come later. The fact that a large part of the state was swallowed with a gulp cannot be taken as proof that all of it will go down. There is still room for hope that some of the important departments will be protected from the onslaught of the politicians.

MME. BLAVATSKY.

LIFE IN THE THEOSOPHIC CENTER IN ST. JOHN'S WOOD.

Mr. Edmund Russell, the American Art Lecturer, gives his Personal Recollections of the Strange Russian Noblewoman—the Sacred and Swore Like a Trooper.

Mr. Edmund Russell of New York, the art lecturer who illustrated the teachings of Deists before St. Louis audience yesterday afternoon at the benefit of the Theosophical Society, is a disciple of the late Mme. Blavatsky. Until a year ago Mr. Russell was a member of the "inner circle" of theosophy which held its meetings at the late Mme. Blavatsky's house in London, and for nearly four years was a constant visitor and something of a protégé of the strange Russian noblewoman who was called the "greatest humbug" or the "greatest fraud" of her day. Living during that time in London as a lecturer on art and the study of harmony in music, Mr. Russell was thrown much with the peculiar school furnishing the heart of western theosophy, and his reminiscences of the late Mme. Blavatsky are peculiarly interesting at the present moment.

"I met Mme. Blavatsky," said Mr. Russell to Post-Dispatch reporter this morning, "through the kindness of the German Count painter Herman Schittgen, who presented me. That was four years ago, and I had just gone to London from New York. Mme. Blavatsky was then living at her Bay-water house, and it was before Annie Besant had become one of her household. She afterward moved to St. John's Wood, into the house where she was living at the time of her death, at which also I was quite a frequent visitor. Her household then consisted of her daughter and her sister, Mme. Vera Petrovna Jellicott, the Countess Wach, another wealthy and beautiful Swedish noblewoman whose husband at one time or two other intimates. The house was, however, a center of attraction and of thought, and one would meet there at times almost every 'notable' of the London world, including, among others, the late Lord Moseley, Robert Browning, Whistler and Alma Tadema were among those of my own friends whom I have seen at Mme. Blavatsky's, and of course there were distinguished visitors from other countries almost without number. I learned in time to regard it as the most hospitable house I ever entered.

"My first expectations, as you might say, of Mme. Blavatsky were colored by the almost world-wide misconception of theosophy's personality. I expected to find a woman of a certain type, and of a strong magnetic force that cast a shadow over those with whom she came in contact. You know this idea of Mme. Blavatsky arose from her violent temper. She was literally a child of nature, and her one weakness was a temper that sometimes burst into a storm that swept everything before it. Mme. Blavatsky recognized no law of conventionality in her conduct, and of the fact that she was a woman of a certain type, and of a strong magnetic force that cast a shadow over those with whom she came in contact. TICKET PUNCHERS.

The Order of Railway Conductors Getting Down to Business.

LIVELY CONTENTS OVER SOME OF THE OFFICERS ARE ANTICIPATED.

The Majority of the Members Believed to Be Opposed to Amalgamation with the Brotherhood—St. Louisans Working to Secure the Headquarters—Morning Sessions of the Convention.

The rounds of the Laclede Hotel were crowded all this morning by the delegates to the twenty-third annual convention of the Order of Railway Conductors, which is in session at Addison Hall, Seventeenth and Olive streets. A large number of rooms of the same hotel were occupied by committees, who were in session acting on business that will come before the convention this afternoon.

Room 24, headquarters of the grand officers, was most recently crowded, the delegates coming in to have a chat or seeking information from either Grand Chief Clark, or Grand Secretary Daniels. Badges were distributed among the delegates who had ordered them. The design is a very pretty one, having the number of the division to which the bearer belongs in large metal letters. These badges were designed especially to be worn at the complimentary ball and banquet to be given at Liederkreis Hall, Thirteenth and Chouteau avenue, to-morrow evening. The arrangements for this affair are on a grand scale. Six hundred plates will be laid.

Among the principal topics of discussion around the round table was the probable success in office of those whose term expires at this session of the national convention of the order. There are evidences of some very close contests while some of the old officers will be re-elected without opposition.

CONTEST OVER THE SECRETARIESHIP. For nearly ten years V. P. Daniels has been Grand Secretary of the order, and has almost unanimously received a re-election twice, each being a term of three years. But there is a movement to place some one else in the position this year, the general theory being that Mr. Daniels has held the office long enough. A scheme to spring a surprise in relation to this office was being quietly concocted this morning, and when action is taken either Friday or Saturday several candidates for the position will be announced. But there is a general and apparently unfounded belief among the delegates that Mr. Daniels will be successful, notwithstanding the effort to defeat him. His friends are legion, and this morning they are claiming that some selfish or ambitious men are making an endeavor to secretly undermine his influence by insinuations and charges fathered apparently by no one, and having no foundation in fact. The secretary was in the rounds a good portion of the morning hour talking to the delegates to see how the land lies, and from his talks gained much confidence that he would be successful in the end. The election being several days off, he thinks that he can clear matters up before that time sufficiently to secure a re-election without doubt. Among his most enthusiastic supporters is Ed E. Clark, Grand Chief Conductor, who did not forget to tell the delegates that it was for the benefit of the order that Mr. Daniels be re-elected, and this influence will doubtless have much to do with the result. Mr. Daniels has many other good friends, all of whom are working most faithfully for his success. From present indications, based upon representative expressions from the delegates, he will be re-elected upon the second or third ballot.

OTHER OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED. A. G. Garrettson, at present Grand Senior Conductor, will most probably be re-elected. One year ago he was appointed by the Executive Board, composed of the grand officers and the position of grand senior conductor, Mr. Clark, having been elected to be Grand Chief Conductor. Mr. Garrettson has made a satisfactory officer, performing his duties as organizer with most general satisfaction. As yet there is no openly avowed opposition to his candidacy.

Grand Senior Conductor J. D. Schultz, Mr. Garrettson's assistant, desires re-election but considerable opposition to his candidacy has developed, and while there is a strong probability of his success, he will have to work for the position.

W. E. Dorey, Grand Inside Sentinel, desires re-election and will probably receive it, but has several opposition candidates in the field. T. H. Becker, the present inside sentinel, will not again be a candidate for the position, but it is impossible to secure a confirmation of this rumor.

There is a vacant position on the Executive Committee, the place now occupied by Martin Clancy, who will probably be re-elected. Chas. E. Weiss, whose term on the Insurance Committee has expired, and he is seeking re-election.

The two latter offices do not carry with them a membership of the Board of Control and are therefore not so much sought after as the other positions. The Board of Control is the last resort for an appeal. There is no doubt whatever that the board will remain favorable to the policy which has been carried out during the past year.

DO NOT LOVE THE BROTHERHOOD. It does not take but a few minutes in conversation with the delegates to get the information that the proposed amalgamation with the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors advocated by Chief Conductor Geo. W. Howard from the public platform yesterday, is not generally favored. Excuse me, said a gentleman prominent in working the St. Louis end of the matter, this morning, "we must and will have the headquarters. I sincerely believe that St. Louis will go Chicago one better, no matter the nature or their proposition. This question has been thoroughly agitated in favor of St. Louis, and we do not propose, under any circumstances, to allow Chicago or any other place to slip in and take from us what is almost in hand. There is little doubt but that headquarters will be changed and still less, in my opinion, but that St. Louis will come out a winner."

THE COMMITTEES IN SESSION. Grand Chief Clark made the committee appointments yesterday afternoon, and they all met this morning. They are constituted as follows:

Committee on Reports of Grand Officers: W. Baldwin, Chairman; C. D. Baker, E. Crocker, M. O. Habb and J. B. Carlin. Finance Committee: W. B. Bots, Chairman; S. Paul, L. E. Sheppard, M. Guertin and F. P. Finnegan.

Grievances and Appeals—Henry Reardon, Chairman; E. Monell, J. E. Longfoss, J. H. Savers and G. A. Thompson.

HAVE you seen the new rustic Straw Hat? A beauty to be shown at Barr's Special Exhibit during the balance of this week is trimmed in the new combination of pale green and dark hellebore. One of the prettiest novelties secured by our millinery buyer, who is just back from the 'Foreign Openings' of mid-summer goods in New York, is an open straw with crown of great full blown roses and foliage and a Francois bow of lace. We will have some superb creations in large leghorns and chips for young ladies.

Barr's sell all mothers of boys to read the following: We have secured a big assortment of several hundred dozen knee trousers in dark and medium shades, specially desirable for school wear—checks and stripes. All are now on sale at 60 cents a pair, all sizes, 4 to 14 years.

There's only one way to save money, and that is to trade at Barr's. Here's a chance to buy men's wear at about half. A job, with all sizes too, in men's genuine French Balbriggan vests and drawers, a regular $2.25 suit, for 85 cents each piece. And an assortment of nearly all sizes in silk and wool top shirts, silk stitched, silk, non-shrinkable band, elegant shirts, never before sold under $4, for $2.50 each, and almost a complete line of sizes.

All the Handkerchiefs left from our big sale of manufacturer's seconds will be closed out at still greater reduction this week. All the ladies' at 10 and 20 cents each, and a few hand-embroidered dollar and dollar-fifty grades for 50 cents. In men's, three qualities are left, and will be offered at 15, 20 and 25 cents.

Special to Housekeepers, Barnley's 18-inch twilled toweling, bleached, extra quality, always sold at 15 cents, 3,000 yards in the assortment, for 12 1/2 cents a yard. And plain white hemstitched Huckaback towels, real hemstitched on each end, for 25 cents apiece.

Here are two grand bargains, satin plaid sephyr gingham, worth a quarter, for 15 cents a yard, in all the lovely French grays, lavenders, tans, blues, pinks, old rose, and other fashionable shades. The other is genuine French Zephyr Flannels, in new chall patterns, polka spots, wide and narrow stripes, all the most delicate and the dark shades, for Two-gowns, girls' dresses, blouses and children's suits. Effectiveness and fullness in the region of the stomach, impatience, irritability, sleeplessness, anxiety and melancholy, impairment of the appetite and taste, loss of hope, courage and energy are symptoms of Nervous Dyspepsia.

I take pleasure in announcing that I have been cured by the Chinese Herb Remedy Co. of a chronic dyspepsia from which I suffered for over fifteen years. I could neither eat nor sleep, and was reduced to a skeleton from the misery of that dreadful disease. During that time I tried some of the best physicians, both here and in New York City, but only experienced slight relief for the time being, the ailment returning with renewed force.

At last resort and with little expectation of being cured, I tried the Chinese Remedies, and I am happy to say I am entirely well. I can eat and drink everything I desire, and I suffer no more from those terrible pains (which only a sufferer from dyspepsia realizes) and feel as well as I ever did in my life. My cure is apparent to all my friends, and I cannot speak too highly of the wonderful good that remedies have wrought for me. I take pleasure in recommending every one who suffers from dyspepsia to the Chinese Herb Remedy Co., feeling that they are effected such a wonderful cure in my case, they are able to cure sufferers from this disease. I have no objection to seeing anyone who wishes to call on me personally. MR. P. MADSEN, 301 Olive St., St. Louis.

to devise some means that will be more satisfactory than that in vogue at present. There is a likelihood that a report as regards amalgamation will not be submitted to the convention for several days.

Deep dissatisfaction is being expressed among the delegates because of the unusual hours that they are in session, the entire work being done in the afternoon. The claim is made that occasions often arise when it is necessary for the almost immediate action of some committee, whereas as now such a thing would be almost impossible, except by taking recess.

Committee on Grand Officers. The Committee on Grievances made an important report, containing considerable time. It is not certain that any other committee will be ready to submit the result of their deliberations this afternoon.

It is thought several important special committees will be appointed during the afternoon, but this all depends upon how much time the convention has at its disposal. Included among these is one on amalgamation and the removal of the headquarters. It is the object of the St. Louis delegation to manage their campaign as secretly as possible, and it is very desirable that they capture the latter named committee to carry their point without any trouble.

SHORTLY before 10 o'clock this morning Chance Davis fell on the steps in front of the house at 1219 Chestnut street, and received a scalp wound on the back of the head.

THE Rock Springs school teachers will have a meeting to-night to make arrangements for a contest in which the school of each district of fifty years ago will be represented.

AUTUMNAL FESTIVITIES.

The Finance Committee Getting Ready to Solicit Subscriptions.
The Finance Committee of the Autumnal Festivities Association is organizing and will soon have sub-committees calling on merchants to receive their subscriptions to the fall festival. The meeting of the Finance Committee will be held at the Exposition to-night in Mr. Frank Gallen's office. Mr. Samuel Kennard, President of the Autumnal Association, was seen to-day after he had made a tour of the field, and expressed himself as most sanguine as to results.

The success of Monday night's meeting is still discussed. Congratulations are pouring in on Mr. Goodman Kim, Chairman of the Advertising Committee, for whose efforts it is largely due having the public's attention properly called to the meeting.

Mr. Joseph Specht, who is also a member of the Advertising Committee, has entered into the work with his well-known enthusiasm. As he puts it, the Advertising Committee "will paint the country red." Mr. Specht leaves the city on Saturday on a tour of inspection to look over the field to see where money can be judiciously spent in advertising, or in his own words "to get some pointers."

"There is no knowing," said Mr. Specht, "where this thing is going to end. Every person in the city should interest themselves. A $1,000,000 hotel in St. Louis means $1,000,000 spent in St. Louis and that much more work for our mechanics. We shall whoop up things. We will go to the Merchants' Bridge people and tell them they must have their depot done by 1892. The same with the Union Depot. All this rushing will mean more work and more money for the laboring classes. It is just like starting a ball down a hill. If it meets with no obstruction there is no knowing where it will stop."

A question is being discussed by the Executive Committee of the Festivities Association of reaching the middle classes and more prosperous portions of the community and working classes generally, but no definite plan has been decided on. The sub-committee of the Finance Committee will not have time to call on these, and it is estimated that a large sum could be raised by such a tour.

The Executive Committee will meet in a day or two and decide on the matter.

SCHWEICKHARDT SAFE.

CITY COUNSELOR BELL SAYS THE PRIVILEGES GRANTED WERE LEGAL.

Reasons Given Why the Proceedings Begun by Attorney-General Wood Are Likely to Fail—Getting Ready for the New Ordinance at the City Hall.

City Counselor Bell was asked what the city would have to say as to the injunction applied for by the Attorney-General to prevent the Schweickhardt ordinance leasing the privileges in Forest Park from being executed. He said that the ordinance was passed in good faith, and had been accepted by Schweickhardt and the lease provided for had been executed, and the system created by the ordinance and lease was in actual operation, when the State had intervened by the present proceeding. The management and control of the parks was vested by law in the city government, and it was his duty by ordinance. This power of management necessarily included such questions as to whether refreshments, music and other methods of entertainment should be provided or permitted in the parks. Public opinion might be and probably was divided on these questions, but the ultimate decision of the same rested with the city government. As to these matters, the city was practically independent of the State authorities. Under the doctrine of local self-government embodied in the city charter, the power of the city to determine its own local questions of the above character was complete and final. There was no prohibition in the State Constitution or in the provisions of the Schweickhardt ordinance, and Mr. Bell was sanguine that an impregnable defense would be presented by the city to the proceedings instituted by Attorney-General Wood.

Getting Ready for New Officers.

Many of the offices about the City Hall are being cleaned out and straightened up for the new occupants who are expected to take formal possession within the next two weeks. The City Counselor and his assistants had all their private papers bundled up this morning ready to move as soon as Mr. Marshall and Macklin appeared. The move will be postponed until Saturday. In the Sewer and Park Departments there were two commissioners were dusting around the old rubbish which had accumulated. In the Street and Harbor Departments all was quiet and unchanged, as the same heads were to remain for the next four years.

Capt. McClellan and Commissioner Furlong were packing up their traps, as were most of their subordinates, as it is expected that a clean sweep will be made in these two offices. In the Supply Office work is being done, and a report of resignation suggestive of approaching depopulation.

In the Street Department the satisfaction of the employees was expressed in the shape of small cash donations to the fund for the purchase of a floral testimonial to be given to Maj. Murphy this afternoon. Whether other departments will provide floral testimonials of a similar nature for the departing heads has not been stated.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the fate of the various subordinates in the different offices. The probabilities are that whatever changes are made will be made gradually so as not to jar the machinery too severely.

The Case of Jessie Fleming.

Lawyer Chas. B. Smythe yesterday afternoon filed an affidavit in the Court of Criminal Correction, stating that Jessie Fleming was illegally detained at the residence of Miss Mary Fleming, No. 220 O'Fallon street, near the widow of her mother's guardian, Miss Annie Hughes, alias Hamilton, of 201 Chestnut street. The affidavit alleged that Miss Fleming be required to produce the girl in court at 10 o'clock this morning and show cause for the detention. Acting Judge Robt. W. Goode ordered a writ of habeas corpus issued, which was served last night by Deputy Sheriff Dunn. The girl's mother was arrested last Monday night at the Union Depot, and an effort will be made to show that Acting Chief Frutchie exceeded his authority in giving over the child to Miss Mary Fleming.
